DUPLICATE STITCH

This is the stitch used most often for embroidering a desired motif on a knitted article. It is worked by: * bringing needle through center of stitch from the wrong side to right side of work – see ill. A. Following the outline of the knit stitch above, draw the yarn across the back of the two strands of this stitch–see ill. A and B–return needle to the center of the same stitch–see ill. B–and draw yarn through. Repeat from * starting next stitch by bringing needle through center of stitch to be duplicated–see ill. C.
